Wireless networks are changing the way we all work and do business. They boost productivity, improve communication and accelerate decision making. Wireless networks can act as a complement to or substitute for wired LAN in buildings, particularly those buildings that need flexibility or are limited by planning constraints.

The use of hand-held mobile devices has become a critical business tool for a number of sectors, from distribution centres and warehouses to hospitals. Wireless networks allow work 'roaming' with fast, secure access and no interruption to productivity.

Whether you're looking for a pure wireless network, hybrid environment or an upgrade to meet an increasing device demand, enablesIT's team of skilled and highly experienced consultants and engineers will design and deploy the perfect solution for your business. We tailor solutions to meet your needs with expert design and deploying the latest technologies, both data and voice, to maximize security and optimize availability.

Our Wireless Surveys enable us to identify any issues with your current network. We will detect the route cause, resolve and identify the ideal positioning of Access Points to maximize your coverage and performance.
